Speaking Courage : The Native Women's Association of Canada and the Charlottetown Accord Referendum

Mary Eberts is one of a few senior constitutional lawyers in Canada practising outside of government. Perhaps she is best known for her work on the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. There is no doubt that the work of the Legal Education and Action Fund in court bears the hallmark of Mary Eberts' influence; essentially a conservative approach to advocacy, based on respect for legal and social institutions and a preference for orderly change. It was Mary Eberts who took LEAF (FAEJ) into Québec and initiated case involvements there.
